

Julia Foresman

Julia Foresman is a 25-year old law student residing in Hoboken, NJ. Julia is a long-distance runner who, after several weeks of "uncharacteristic fatigue," was hospitalized for a series of pulmonary embolisms (PE) in June 2008 resulting from the estrogen in her oral contraceptives. Humbled and ever-resolved to stay healthy and active, Julia crossed the finish line of her first Boston Marathon a mere 10 months after her PE last April. Thankful for her 'second chance,' Julia has since been committed to promoting thrombosis awareness, education, and prevention among men and women.

NATF Active Advocacy Member