

Heidi Blongastainer

Heidi Blongastainer, a former human resources professional, is a 33 year old stay-at-home mom to two girls, ages 3 and 5 months. In 2005, Heidi and her husband were the victims of a drunk driver and were in a terrible car accident. The accident resulted in Heidi requiring multiple surgeries, major trauma to her body, and loss of a late term pregnancy. After a week long hospitalization, Heidi returned home and developed pain in her calf which was followed by severe chest pain and extreme difficulty breathing. Assuming these symptoms were related to her injuries, Heidi ignored them but finally ended up returning to the

NATF Active Advocacy Member